DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 4 and 7 are objected to because of the following informalities: the spacing of letters is irregular (for example on the 5th line of claim 4, "having a b and g ap"). Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tombling (US Pat. App. Pub. No. 2002/0093731).

With regard to claim 1, Tombling discloses in Fig. 4 a semiconductor optical amplifier comprising a substrate, a first clad layer (14, lower) deposited on the substrate, an active layer deposited (12) on the first clad layer, and a second clad layer (14, upper) deposited on the active layer. The active layer comprises several sections with different band gaps as illustrated in the lower plot of Fig. 4.

With regard to claim 3, the first section receives the input optical signal, while the last section outputs the amplified optical signal. The band gap of Fig. 4 is higher than that of the first section.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3663

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tombling as applied to claim 1. Although Tombling does not specifically disclose that the active layer section outputting the amplified optical signal has a bandgap lower than that of the active layer section where the optical signal is input, such a modification is made obvious by simply inputting signal light from the opposite end of the amplifier illustrated in Fig. 4. The clause "for receiving the input optical signal" and "for outputting an amplified optical signal" are essentially statements of intended or desired use. Such a statement could be avoided by using structural language e. g. "configured for receiving the input optical signal". Thus, these claims as well as other statements of intended use do not serve to patentably distinguish the claimed structure over that of the reference. See In re Pearson, 181 USPQ 641; In re Yanush, 177 USPQ 705; In re Finsterwalder, 168 USPQ 530; In re Casey, 512 USPQ 235; In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458; Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2nd 1647.

See MPEP § 2114 which states:

A claim containing a "recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from the prior art apparatus" if the prior art apparatus teaches all the structural limitations of the claim. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2nd 1647

Claims directed to apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than functions. In re Danly, 120 USPQ 528, 531.

Apparatus claims cover what a device is not what a device does. Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 8-10 are allowed. Claims 4-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art does not teach or make obvious, a semiconductor optical amplifier comprising at least three sections, with the bandgap of the second section lower than the first and last sections. This statement is not intended to necessarily state all the reasons for allowance or all the details why the claims are allowed and has not been written to specifically or impliedly state that all the reasons for allowance are set forth (MPEP 1302.14).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

Art Unit: 3663
